Homecoming Plans Nearly Complete

With the Homecoming weekend just one week away, plans for the big event are going into the final stages.

Beginning at 5:45 Friday evening, members of the class of '24, '29, '34, '39, '44, '49, '54 and '59 will hold reunions at Carver's Restaurant.

Alumni Have Chapel

Alumni chapel will be held at 6:30 Friday evening in the Little Theater. Pres. C. H. Becker will conduct the service.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday, the curtain will go up on the Kastle Kapers' production, entitled "Jump Down, Spin Around." Special lighting and sound effects wil be used for the variety show. Those attending will experience another Wartburg first, according to co-directors Tom Christensen and Ralph Hicken.

Parade Sat. Morn

The Homecoming parade, which will start down Bremer Avenue at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, will be made up of about twenty floats and marching bands. Among the bands wil be those from Emmons, Minn., and Garnavillo. Bob Herforth, parade chairman, expects the floats to be especially good this year because the themes can easily be adapted to float design.

Final Homecoming Queen election will take place at Tuesday's convo. The newly elected queen will be revealed at Kastle Kapers Friday night and will be crowned during half-time of the game on Saturday. She will be crowned by Karla Edgar, last year's Homecoming Queen.

Beards To Be Judged

Judging of the beards will take place Tuesday evening in Room 106, Fine Arts Building. Two faculty members and the winner of last year's contest will act as judges. The winners will be announced at Kastle Kapers Friday night.

The following Waverly merchants will contribute prizes for the various contests: College Hill Pharmacy, Meyer's Drug, Stauffer's Pharmacy, Kettner's Clothing, Dale's Sport Shop, Liebau's Barber Shop, Top Hat Cleaners, Gambles, Harrison 5c, 10c and $1 and The Hub.

Family Life Confab Is Set

Haas, Duvall Panel Speakers

To interest Americans in creative family living and to involve the church and school in creative family life will be the goals of the Family Life Conference to be held at Wartburg next Thursday and Friday.

Wartburg College is co-sponsoring the conference with the American Social Hygiene Association. Some five hundred people from Iowa and surrounding states are expected to be in attendance.

Theme Stated

"The American Family: The Joint Responsibility of Religion and Education" is the theme of the meeting.

Five keynote speakers will be featured on the program. Dr. Harold Haas, executive secretary of the Board of Social Missions of the United Lutheran Church, is to speak on "The Church's Involvement in Preparation for Family Living." He has been a pastor since 1942 and was an official observer of the United Lutheran Church at the Lutheran World Federation in Lund, Sweden, in 1947 and in Hanover, Germany, in 1952.

Duvall Noted Author

A consultant on courtship, marriage and family life, Dr. Evelyn Duvall, of Chicago, will speak on "The Church and School as Partners in Preparation for Family Living." She has written seven books dealing with marriage and family life. Dr. Duvall also appears on radio and television.

"What the Church Can Do with the Help of the School" will be the title of the speech given by Dr. Carl Reuss, executive secretary for the Board of Christian Social Action of the American Lutheran Church. Dr. Reuss was dean of faculty at Wartburg from 1948-51.

Is Prof At Chicago

Professor of Education at the University of Chicago, Dr. Robert J. Havighurst will speak on "The School's Involvement in Preparation for Family Living." He is author or co-author of seven books dealing with education and human development.

Dr. Dave Fulcomer, counselor at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City, will head a panel dealing with "What the Schools Can Do with the Help of the Church."

Wartburg students will present a play on Thursday evening, entitled "The Broken Circle" by Norris Stirling. The play concerns family problems in marriage. Narrator of the play is Bob Rosenberg. The role of Mr. Burton, a caseworker, will be played by Arlo Bice. Harry Ford will be played by Don Ehlers and Edith Ford by Sharon Kronberg. The play will be presented at 9 p.m. in the Little Theater.

Directories Will Be Here This Week

Wartburg Confidential?

Not quite, but the new Student Directories will come close. Complete with names, addresses and telephone numbers of all Wartburgers, plus other useful information, the directories go on sale next week.

Students will be contacted through room-to-room canvassing in the dormitories. Directory price is 35 cents.

When She Reigns It Pours----10 Queens Enter Finals

Gretchen Mary Ellen Meredith Keo Delores

Shirley Darlene Wanda Marian Nancy

By Carol Stier

Though everyone is looking forward to the Homecoming celebration, there are 10 senior women who are particularly eager for the event to arrive.

These 10 young ladies were selected by the Student Body from a list of all the senior women to be candidates for the title of Wartburg's 1959 Homecoming Queen and Royal Court.

Vying for the royal positions are four music majors, four elementary education majors, a history and an English major.

Several Future Teachers

Those who will graduate with an elementary education degree are Darlene Arns, Waverly; Shirley Campbell, Maquoketa; Marian Chatfield, Minneapolis; and Wanda Karsten, Fort Riley, Kan.

Darlene, president of Four R's and secretary of the Women's Coordinating Board, is majoring in Christianity and plans to teach Christian Day School. She also claims membership in the Student Education Association and Phebes.

A mid-year graduate, Shirley belongs to SEA and plans to teach grades one and two in spite of her Christmas time wedding to Jack Reents, '58 grad now at Wartburg Seminary.

Marian is president of the Women's Coordinating Board and participates in SEA, choir and the Religious Activities Committee.

Wanda is a member of SEA, Student Union Committee and Convocations Committee, and plans to be married "probably in June," she says. Gary Hummel, senior class president, is her fiance.

These Are 'Music Maids'

The four music majors, all of whom belong to Music Educators National Conference and sing in the choir, are Delores McMahan, Silver City; Keo Miller, Agra, Kan.; Meredith Stuhmer, Alma, Neb.; and Mary Ellen Wilke, Waterloo.

Delores is preparing for a Bachelor of Music Education degree. She plans to be married at Christmas to Dave Linkey, 1958 Wartburg alumnus.

Keo, who in planning a summer wedding with Fritz Fritschel, '56, adds Mission Fellowship to her schedule.

Taking a double major (Music—Organ and Voice), Meredith, too, belongs to Mission Fellowship and takes part in the Artist Series and Student Union Committees.

Senior class secretary Mary Ellen is student teaching at Janesville at present and includes marriage (Bob Matthias, '58) in her plans for the foreseeable future.

Nancy Crosman, hailing from Chillicothe, Ill., is the English major. She serves this year as Senator, dorm secretary and a member of Mission Fellowship and the Student Activities Committee.

The history major, Gretchen Utke, claims Oriska, N. D., as her home. She is vice president of the Women's Athletic Association, a choir soloist and member of SEA.

The half-time period of the Wartburg-Buena Vista football game next Saturday will feature the supreme moment when the coveted royal crown will be bestowed upon one of these girls. Four others will be named to her court.

Succeeding the 1958 Homecoming Queen, Karla Edgar, Oklahoma City, Okla., the new queen will reign majestically over all the forthcoming activities to bring Homecoming 1959 to a glorious climax.

Tryouts Oct. 6, 7 For Theatre Play

Tryouts for the fall play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday in the office of the Little Theatre, according to Vernon Lestrud, play director.

On Tuesday tryouts will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. and on Wednesday from 1 to 5 p.m. Nine characters, five men and four women, are needed for this classic comedy written by Oscar Wilde.

EDITORIALS—

A Test Would Tell

After last week's editorial favoring student participation on the Educational Policies Committee appeared, it is even more evident that some Wartburg faculty members have deep-seated feelings against such a proposal.

It also is evident that committee members will never determine how much students can contribute to college decision-making if these members aren't willing to make an attempt to find out.

A logical proposal would be that members of the Educational Policies Committee invite the Student Body President to their meetings for a trial period. It must be clear that he would attend the meetings in an advisory capacity only.

Then as professors they can test how well they have fostered values, responsibility and maturity among student leaders.

Chapel Challenge Stands

If you read this editorial through to the end, you are an unusual person.

The very term "chapel attendance" seems to do things to Wartburg students. Some become glassy-eyed, nod their heads in benevolent agreement and go directly back to the dormitory after supper. Some assume a not-so-benevolent scorn and watch "Restless Gun" for an hour in the Union.

To be more exact, the term "chapel attendance" does nothing to Wartburg students. It is somewhat like a pesky mosquito buzzing around one's ears, and it seemingly can be dispelled as easily.

Wartburg boasts more than one thousand students. On a normal Monday evening late in September, 213 of those students went to chapel. That's just a mite over twenty per cent of the Student Body.

Seventy per cent of the students at Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn., voluntarily attend chapel, according to a survey conducted by the Wartburg Religious Activities Committee in 1957. Texas Lutheran College at Seguin doesn't do as well, however. Only 50 to 60 per cent of the students attend voluntary chapel there.

Chapel attendance at Wartburg is shameful. The question is — why?

Perhaps the trouble lies with the program itself. Thus far this year, however, the quality of the services has been extraordinarily good. Use of a microphone by speakers has also improved the over-all effect of the program. Yet, according to observers in the Christianity Department, attendance this fall is lower than it was last fall. Maybe the walk around the chapel-auditorium construction and the removal of the library from Luther Hall have taken their toll of chapel-goers.

Or perhaps the trouble lies in the students themselves. The social pressure to attend chapel in 1947 is not present today, according to a Wartburg student of that time. It is noteworthy that chapel attendance falls off, not only as each year lengthens, but also as students progress through the standard four years at Wartburg. Religious attitudes are extremely personal, however. The chapel program is much more easily altered.

A voluntary mid-morning chapel might do much to revitalize the program. Off-campus students and faculty could thus participate in the worship service more readily. A 20-minute chapel in the morning, as held at Luther and St. Olaf, as well as at some other Lutheran schools, would be an integral part of the school day instead of something merely tacked on at the end.

But an excellent program is only one of the qualities in the formula of a successful chapel program. The other quality, and the unknown factor, is the students.

What do you think about chapel? The fact that you have read this editorial shows that you, at least, do not simply shrug it aside. You are an unusual person.

Will anyone have the nerve to guess the Homecoming football score in favor of Buena Vista?

Overheard from a freshman: "I didn't know college was like this. All I do is wait in line and decide whether I want one or two lumps of potatoes."

Stumbling Block Evokes Response

To The Editor:

As I see it, Homecoming isn't the only excitement on campus! Last week's editorial . . . Luther Hall's bulletin board . . . a professor's comment—"but Wartburg's tradi- is freedom!" . . . a convocation speaker's remark, "Maybe it is good to question tradition." What's the issue?

The problem revolves around student interest in the Faculty Educational Policies Committee. This committee is responsible for academic achievements. Certainly not only the faculty members, but also students are part of academic standards and achievements. And so isn't it only logical that we students—with our interest and ideas—would be of value to this committee?

Therefore, because of our interest we want to know (1.) more of what this committee does and how we could be of help; (2.) what objections members have against student interest in this committee.

I suggest that there be further open discussions between students and faculty on this issue—so important to Wartburg's academic freedom!

A college education isn't easy to come by these days. Think of the student's hardships — like the long walk to the Union or Luther Hall after he's parked his car. It's getting so tough that the men on campus are threatening to turn the car back to Dad. Better check on it, Oppie.

PLUCK THE PEACOCKS

No, the excavating being done behind North Hall is not the beginning of a swimming pool. It's a place to "Bury the Beavers" after next week's game. From the way it smells, it would seem that they have already been there for some time.

To Have A Ball - -

Here are some timely tips and pointers for all the guys and gals who are dreamily looking forward to dancing in "Sleepy Shangrila" at the Homecoming Ball next Saturday evening.

First of all, to be proper Knights and Ladies, these suggestions are offered on the fashion line: Since it is a formal dance, for the girls either ballerina, full or waltz length gowns are in order. The fellows accordingly should wear dark suits, white shirts and ties.

Then, decorum reminds everyone that the dance is a formal ball. It should not be confused with a sock hop. More or less formal conduct is in good taste. It would be a very nice gesture to greet the chaperones or be introduced to them.

Now for a word to the boys alone: Don't forget the girls have 1:30 hours. If you are thinking about flowers for your date, it might not be a bad idea to ask her the color of the dress she plans to wear.

SCHROEDER SPEAKS

'Nationalism Crowds Christian College'

By Howard Schroeder

The Constitution of Wartburg College states that the object of the college is "to provide higher education . . . in an atmosphere of Christian culture, preparing young men and women for Christian living and for full-time service in the Church as well as in other professions and vocations."

Have you read that before? Probably not, if you are a run-of-the-mill college student. I quote page 26 of the Wartburg College bulletin. This excerpt defines part of the aims of a CHRISTIAN LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGE.

But, are we as students adhering to this aim? What are we really here for? What value do you place upon your college education?

Values Change

Since the birth of higher education in the United States, the educational values of college students have obviously changed. In the early 19th century the purpose was basically religious — to serve God and to help establish His Kingdom on Earth.

Schroeder

Gradually the intellectual surge of the American student found the bounds of this kind of education too constraining.

This forced in a new era, which entailed the separation of church and state schools. This was the birth of what we call secular education. The onslaught of secular education marked also the beginning of our American individualism and idealism.

Nationalism Appears

While the forces of these two eras are still making their appearance, another third phase is bearing down on us — the period of nationalism. This nationalism is an obvious product of the growth of our nation: growth of population and wealth, of technological methods and the necessities of hot and cold war.

To make a case in point showing the growing trend of nationalism in higher education, we note that the Federal Government has set up a DEFENSE Fund for education in the form of scholarships. In other words, the government has taken upon itself the job of educating its people. And for what reason? Defense.

Can you visualize nationalism gradually obliterating the concept of Liberal Arts, and even more important, the concept of Christian Liberal Arts?

Or are Nationalism and Christian Liberal Arts compatible?

Jomen In Tangle With UIU

By Don Bathgate

Wartburg's football squad will take a 2-0 Conference record and a consecutive winning streak of 10 to Fayette tonight where they tangle with Upper Iowa University.

The Peacocks will especially be out to mar Wartburg's record, as Saturday has been named "Doc" Dorman Day by Upper Iowa in observance of Coach Dorman's 56 years of coaching for the school.

Time Is 7:30

Game time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the bigh school field. Making the trip to Fayette this year will be the Victory Bell, which the Knights won last year for the first time in four years by edging the Peacocks 26-20.

The Victory Bell goes to the winner of the annual football game between the two schools. Wartburg's over-all record with Upper Iowa is 5 wins compared to 13 losses and 2 ties.

U.I.U. Loses

Upper Iowa dropped both of its games so far this year by losing to Illinois Wesleyan in the first game and coming out on the short end of last week's game with a powerful Buena Vista squad by a 32 to 14 count.

Coach Norm Johansen feels that the Upper Iowa squad will be two TD's better than the Parsons squad of last week. He also stated that he expects the Peacocks to do a lot of passing in tonight's game.

The combination of Wartburg's record, "Doc" Dorman Day, The Victory Bell and Upper Iowa's persistence to always be tough against the Knights should make tonigbt's game one of the best in the state.

OVER THE GOAL line goes halfback Tom Van Wyngarten to score one of Wartburg's TDs in Saturday's 26-7 win over Parsons.

Picking Up Splinters

By Jim Adix

When the Knights invade the darkness and rolling meadows of the home of the Peacocks tonight, they will continue a long and illustrious series between the two schools. For years, the Wartburg-Upper Iowa contests have been known as grudge battles. And herein lies a story: how many of you, Knights and Knigbties, know just where and under what circumstances the celebrated "Victory Bell" came from?

★ ★ ★

Over a decade ago, in 1948, the Oelwein Chamber of Commerce began sponsoring the yearly struggle on the gridiron. Since it was the number one contest, so far as public interest was concerned in this area, neutral ground was chosen for the battle, perhaps to create more interest or to preserve the movable property of the two schools. For a few years, Oelwein Municipal Stadium was host to the event.

★ ★ ★

In 1949, perhaps to give some tangible evidence of victory (or to protect college property), a large locomotive bell was donated to the cause by the Chicago Great Western Railway. This is our victory bell, which stands today proudly in Knights Gym.

★ ★ ★

For the past 56 years, the Upper Iowa gridiron men have been guided by the venerable "Doc" Dorman, who was at one time a dentist in Fayette until he recently began devoting his entire efforts to the Peacocks. Dorman piloted many famous teams, and brought the once-formidable "box" formation into football being.

★ ★ ★

From this corner, it seems in order to pay tribute to a grand old man who has made bimself a legend to Northeast Iowa and Iowa Conference sports fans. Congratulations, Doc, but I must warn you that I'm quite doubtful if the Jomen will be too willing to co-operate in making your day complete. See ya at the game, classmates!

THE $64,000 QUESTION

Chuck Nichol Answer To Sports Riddle

By Charles Jepsen

Riddle for the week: When is a nickel worth more than five cents?

Answer: When he's Charles (Chuck) Nichol, defensive halfback and now an offensive end for the Wartburg Knights.

A graduate of nearby Greene High School, Nichol was a standout in four sports at that school. He played both quarterback and halfback while earning four letters in football. He also was a three-letter winner in basketball, baseball and track.

Plays For Jo

Chuck's first three years under Coach Norm Johansen found him playing almost exclusively at a defensive halfback position, where he became an important cog in the Knight defense. Nichol, however, played an offensive halfback enough to score four touchdowns during his sophomore year. Last year in 21 attempts, Chuck gained 101 yards, an average of 4.8 yards per carry.

This year Johansen, deciding to make greater use of Chuck's offensive ability, has switched him to an offensive end, a position Chuck says he really likes.

Is Versatile

Nichol is still figured upon to see considerable duty at his old defensive position.

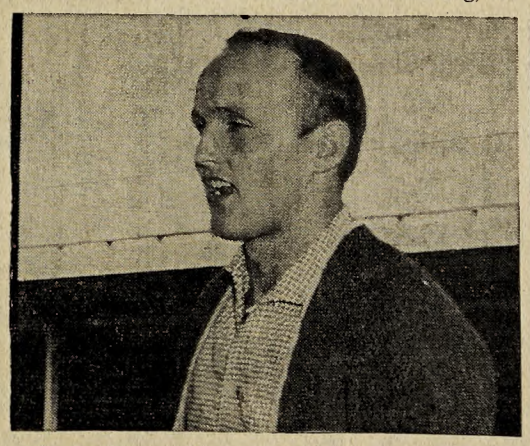
Chuck, in addition to playing football, was also a member of Coach Earnest Oppermann's baseball squad last spring, where he lettered as an outfielder.

Champion Thrilled

He looks upon being a member of last year's conference champ team as being his biggest single thrill in the game of football.

Chuck's popularity with other athletes can be seen in two ways: First, he was chosen as one of the co-captains for the Knights' opening football game with Luther. Second, Chuck is now serving as president of the "W" Club.

Nichol hopes to coach in a fairly large Iowa high school after he graduates with a physical education major. In addition to coaching, he undoubtedly will teach his minor subject, science.



Chuck Nichol, a mainstay on defense and now offense, is indeed proving to be of considerable value to the Wartburg Knights.
